

apfpm ASIA PACIFIC PROJECT MANAGEMENT AWARDS

apfpm Research Award Submission Guidelines

INTRODUCTION

The Asia Pacific Federation of Project Management (apfpm) has established a project management awards program - apfpm Asia Pacific Project Management Awards (known as the apfpm Awards). Research Award is one of the awards which recognizes that research is an essential part of the development of the project management profession; and therefore is seeking to recognize research excellence through the establishment of this award.

All researchers in the area of project management throughout the Asia-Pacific region are eligible to enter this award. Furthermore, the award is open to all aspects of research and should demonstrate its relevance to project management, and how the outcomes benefit project management.

The Awards will be judged by a panel of eminent project managers representing both the profession and academia. The apfpm do not charge fees for submitting entries into the apfpm Awards.

Entries must be submitted through a local Member Association of apfpm for consideration by apfpm.

Entries are limited to a max of 2 research project submissions for the Research Award from any country represented by a participating Member Association of the apfpm.

A submission may not be entered to represent more than one country.

These guidelines are in three parts:

- Part 1: The Management and Outcome of Research Projects
- Part 2: General Conditions Relating to all Submissions
- Part 3: Assistance Notes for Potential Entrants

Entrants must carefully read these Submission Guidelines and respond to all submission requirements.

PART 2 General Conditions relating to all Submissions

2.1 GENERAL SUBMISSION REQUIREMENTS

Submissions need to be concise yet contain sufficient information for the judging panel to adequately assess the merits of the entry.

All necessary clearances and permissions required for the release of all information submitted including any proprietary, confidential, technical or commercial information must be obtained by the applicant.

There should be no restrictions on the use of the submitted information in any promotion of the apfpm Awards program.

All expenses relating to the preparation of the submission and attendance at the Award ceremonies are the responsibility of the applicant.

All submissions become the property of the apfpm and are not returned to applicants.

Applicants consent to having submissions used for the apfpm Awards promotional purposes for a period of two years from the year of submission.

Submissions will be accepted under the conditions of these Guidelines.

NOTE: “documentary evidence” is required to support and validate all claims made in the submission. Photographs and quotes from sponsors and others substantiating claims, or extracts from various research documents may be used. Evidence is used for scoring of submissions during judging and therefore the scoring will be commensurate with the level of appropriate supporting documentation submitted.

apfpm Asia Pacific Project Management Awards

International Projects:

Each year, the International Project Management Association (IPMA) presents research awards in two categories:

- Pure (PhD research); and
- Applied research

The winners of the apfpm Research Award will be forwarded to the IPMA Research awards in the Applied Research category in the following year.

Apfpm will consider the entry of a submission in the apfpm Awards to constitute the approval of the submitter for the entry of that submission into the IPMA Project Management Research Awards in the year following the apfpm Awards. Submission of an apfpm Award winner into the IPMA Research Awards will require the winner to redraft their submission in accordance with the IPMA Research Awards Guidelines. Apfpm will attempt to contact the winners to advise the date by which the redrafted submission is to be returned to the apfpm Awards committee for forwarding to the IPMA Project Management Research Awards.

2.2 THE SUBMISSION PROCESS

All entries for the apfpm Awards will be forwarded by the relevant local apfpm Awards Coordinator by latest 4pm (AEST), September 1st, 2017, to the apfpm Secretariat. Late entries will not be considered.

NOTE: where Member Association (national) awards are being conducted to select the entries for apfpm Awards – closing dates for their awards programs will be set by the Member Association body – refer relevant websites for local details of closing dates)

Entries must be submitted in accordance with these guidelines.

2.3 SUBMISSION MATERIAL

All submissions are to use the apfpm Research Submission Template that can be uploaded from the apfpm website.

Submissions are to contain the following material:

- All submissions are to be electronic and submitted to the email address awards@apfpm.org. The submission is to include the following electronic files:
- For all Submissions – a single Word or PDF document containing the full submission together with a minimum of two and a maximum of 10 high resolution research related photographs in JPG format.
- Please ensure the digital photos / drawings are of high resolution quality and are submitted as full colour JPG files. Photos with caption information are preferred. They are to be numbered in the order they are to appear in the presentation.
- Photos and logo(s) will be used in the presentation at the apfpm Awards ceremony, other apfpm publications, and on the apfpm website. Therefore photos and logos in any quality less than high resolution cannot be accepted.
- The 100 word summary may be used in the audio-visual presentation at the apfpm awards ceremony and for any publicity on the research project.

apfpm Asia Pacific Project Management Awards

- Research Institute Logos - are to be provided in EPS format. Entrants must ensure that they have permission to use the logo.

2.4 LOCAL AWARDS

At the sole discretion of each of the participating apfpm Member Association, local awards may be conducted in the lead up to the apfpm Awards. All judging for local awards will be carried out in accordance with the relevant local guidelines. The participating Member Association may use the local program to determine the best (max of two) research submissions to progress to the apfpm Awards. Only submissions received in accordance with these Awards guidelines will be considered.

2.5 JUDGING

An international judging panel will be selected, from apfpm participating Member Associations, forming a panel of eminent project managers and researchers representing both the profession and academia, to assess the overall winning research project. Judging panels will be independent of all submissions and will be selected from a range of industry groups (including academia) and will collectively have a broad range of experience in project management.

Judges decisions shall be final and no correspondence shall be entered into.

Submissions will be assessed solely on the submission and in accordance with these Submission Guidelines. Logos and pictures are expected as supporting material but will not be formally assessed.

2.6 ANNOUNCEMENT OF WINNERS

The winners will be publicly announced each year at the apfpm Awards ceremony at the apfpm Congress held in conjunction with one of the apfpm Member Association's national conference.

This year, the apfpm Research Award will be announced during the 2017 National Project Management Conference that will be held by Australian Institution of Project Management in Melbourne, Australia, during October 22nd and October 24th, 2017. Additional information of the ceremony venue and date will be shared with all the award applicants in September.

The outcome of the judging process may be announced prior to the related Awards ceremony at the discretion of the apfpm President only, to enable winners to attend.

At the sole discretion of the judging panels, High Commendations Awards may be awarded for submissions of significant merit.

PART 3 Assistance Notes for Potential Entrants

The following notes may assist potential apfpm Award entrants with their submission:

- Judges will generally take into consideration the submitted written material to support the submission.

apfpm Asia Pacific Project Management Awards

- At the sole discretion of the judges, an electronic format interview (eg Skype) may be used as part of the judging process. If an interview is conducted interviews would be carried out to all entrants within the relevant category and overall judging shall be an aggregate of the judging of both written material and the interview.
- Judges will be evaluating the submission against the published Submission Criteria and in terms of the specific category being entered
- Judges will be looking for demonstrated achievement in the project management aspects of the project (note: the award is not for the project – it is for the project management of the project)
- Judges may only evaluate the first (max) 34 pages of any submission
- Judging panels for local (national based) and International level may contain different members and therefore the evaluation by local Judges will not be used or have any bearing on the evaluations of the International Judging panel.
- Submissions that do not contain the written consent of the project’s owner/client will not be considered
- Submissions must contain relevant supporting and corroborating evidence within the submission to allow judges to evaluate the claims made in the narrative.
- All submissions must be written to convey directly to the Judges, the aspects of the Project which demonstrate “Achievement”; the project itself is not being judged. The research into a project management topic is judged in terms of “Achievement”.
- In evaluating submissions, all judging panels will use a standard template. The standard template will include the following aspects of each criteria.
- Applicants consent to having submissions submitted to the IPMA Achievement Awards in the following year should they win the apfpm Awards Research category.
